edward graham bailey

What can we say? Ed has certainly situated himself in his element this year and has proved his ability as a lower school prefect. Excelling in auto mechanics, history and pessimism, Ed has shown interest in all facets of Cranbrook life.

Good luck!

Ed Bailey

Lower school prefect, VI; Lower school homecoming committee (advisor).

theodore albert baldwin

Ted's scholastic endeavors were topped off this year by an effort as a Varsity shot-putter and numerous theoretical run-ins with the omniscient Dean. Ted was invaluable as a member of Erg and he also enjoyed socio-economic arguments with anyone intelligent enough to talk sense. Perhaps Stanford will supply the missing link if he doesn't lose himself in an orange grove.

thomas walter howard barlow

Tom has been outstanding at Cranbrook, in football, in wrestling, and occasionally in the classroom. One of the finest Crane wrestlers in recent years, he compiled an impressive record on the mats. His masterful organization of the "C" Club was impressive indeed. One of his accomplishments is an all-time record for lateness to assembly. It reflects only another aspect of his many-sided personality.

John is the quiet, friendly type. He's a composite picture of independence, determination, and sophistication. Socially and academically, he's done a creditable job this year. Well known for his skiing and his way with women, John and snow go together. On the slopes and in the ivy-covered halls, he's done well.

Pete has been active behind the scenes at Cranbrook this year by being the only known Cranbrook student to hold the coveted "OO" prefix. Pete is also one of the few students to win the new George G. Booth Award for unselfish efforts above and beyond the call of duty.

jack erwin boynton

With malice toward none and grim determination, "Boynts" has managed to manage everything he's attempted at school. In Auto Mechanics and Riflery Jack has been mean with gun and wrench. You don't see him much, but he's always there, an active force behind the scenes.

guy alwyn bramble

Guy was neither Cranbrook's most cocky nor most muscular athlete, but he was the mainstay of three varsity sports, and without him things would have been pretty grim. He wrote his Special English thesis on Eisenhower, reportedly a hundred-page thriller on the General's golf handicap. With his athletic ability and scholastic proficiency, Guy will carve a niche for himself at Amherst.

Chip, known to many as Chipper-Pie, gave the year an auspicious start with a resounding "Let's have one big fight!" He followed it up with numerous triumphs on the playing fields, in the classroom, and particularly at Kingswood. A dedicated prefect, he crushed rebellion on second-floor Stevens backed up with only the Jet Set Security Council, a rigorous application of the findishly clever "win a few, lose a few" policy, and an infectious smile. A smile goes a long way. So will Chip.

Steve did a terrific job with the stage crew and technical committee this year despite the fact that all his work was done behind the scenes and deserving credit was small and rare. For this job in particular he should be congratulated, for it is one which goes all but unnoticed and certainly unappreciated by the student lacking perception.

In a class filled with quiet, intelligent scholars, Bob stands frustratingly near the top. Never did he resort to putting a friend down, and he always attacked his jobs with sincerity and enthusiasm. A tremendously accomplished pianist and musician in general, he played in the orchestra for the Operetta and led Chapel services on the organ. He also contracted mumps the week before mid-year exams, and to this condition we give our terrified applause.

His name is Bone, king of the lower school, look on his subjects, ye mighty, and despair. Bone is known for rigorous command of the Lower Schoolers, his parties, ski trips, quick clear thinking, and his extreme coolness under stress which we suppose is the reason for his popularity. John has also netted many a beauty from across the bog including quite a glorious catch from St. Clair. John has a good chance of breaking the school mile record this spring following his records in cross country last fall.

Although Steve has not been conspicuous in school activities since he entered in the third form, he has contributed considerably to Cranbrook life by his jovial manner and unquenchable flame of cheerfulness. Arch managed somehow to make the unbelievable transformation from track captain to Li'l Abner without loss of voice or physique, and gave an admirable performance. Rumor had it that he ran in winter track only to get in prime shape for his brawny part. But in all sincerity, this year's track team probably could not have moved nearly as far or as fast without him.

william elliott estes

Prominent since about the third form as the best-dressed member of his class, Bill became familiar as a tempestuous athlete and extrovert. He was as popular for his picture-perfect backhand stabs at third base as he was with the queens of Kingswood, and the only ones delighted at his departure will be those who want the parking lot filled with Fords instead of spotless new Pontiacs.

"Gets" is quiet, yet effusive, sensitive, yet impulsive. Famous for his plethora of senior rings, he philanthropically gave them away. Known as a skier, tennis player, bon vivant, and general all-around nice guy, Pierce has used abilities to great advantage. His ebullient nature has gotten him in and out of many interesting situations. In his years at Cranbrook, Pierce has demonstrated most of all an affinity for life.

howard allen goldman

Howard, better known as Bodine or Young Beau, has achieved acknowledgment in many aspects of Cranbrook life. In academic standings he has consistently ranked in the top percent of his class since entering in the Third Form and as a senior was voted by his teammates the most improved wrestler of the year, advancing to the quarter finals in the state tournament. Aside from athletic and academic abilities he is considered hard to match in social circles. The head of the "Raiders" will be missed by all.

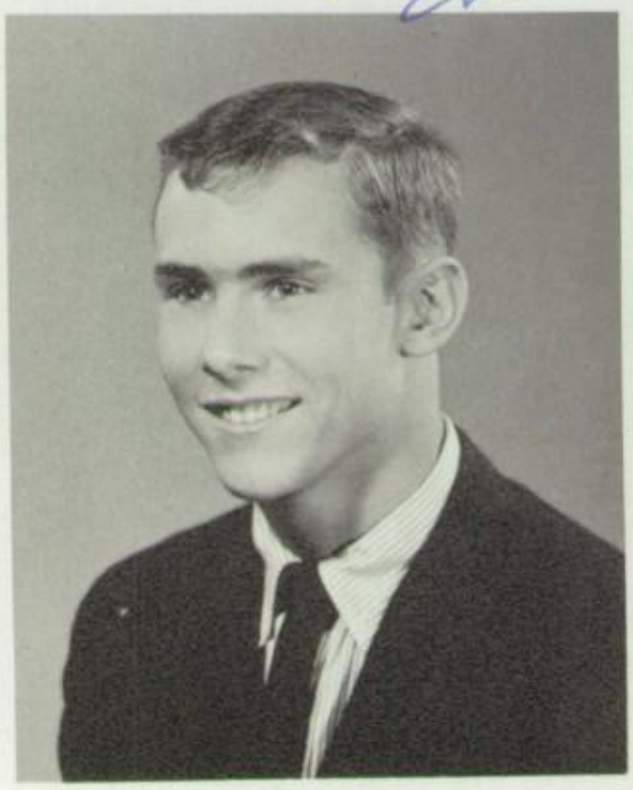
john harrison goodman



Wee Wee, affectionately known as John, has made a name for himself at Cranbrook as well as at Virginia Beach, because of his academic, athletic, and social prowess. In spite of his numerous wart scars, John has been outstanding in football and wrestling, done well on the Social Committee, and kept an honors average. John has captivated his friends with many dubious tales of glory and St. Clair, as he is sure to do next year at Tufts.

byron dover gordon

If you hear a loud cackle along the Cranbrook halls, you know Byron Gordon is nearby. david c. groff, jr.

Hailing from Grosse Ile, Gnomer has contributed much to life here at Cranbrook in the last four years. Perhaps the most significant of these contributions is the fine way in which he has headed the Stevens Hall discipline Committee this year. By giving a helping hand to those who needed it and a good healthy foot to keep things in order, Dave has earned the admiration and respect of Stevens Hall.

Somebody said that it couldn't be done,
But he with a chuckle replied
That "maybe it couldn't" but he would be one Who wouldn't say so till he tried.
So he buckled right in with the trace of a grin
On his face. If he worried he hid it.
He started to sing as he tackled the thing
That couldn't be done, and he did it.

Once again the British flag waves on Cranbrook soil. Friend of Richard Burton, protege of James Bond, and advance publicity agent for the Beatles, our wandering Welshman has become almost a legend with his droll sense of humor and incredible tales of Celtic life. John's efforts in his three years at Cranbrook came to a climax with his appointment as head prefect. John has been a stalwart lineman in the football team, an agile, quick forward on the basketball team and hopes to break the discus record in track this spring. His fine athletic ability is surpassed only by his leadership qualities and ability to get along with others; this has gained him the respect of the entire student body. Elmo, the kid from Traverse City, plays a mean guitar. He's a prefect, too, and a football star, an almost unbeatable combination. He's happy, but he doesn't publicize it. Hailing from Oberlin, Ohio, John the Blue Boy entered Cranbrook as a fifth former. His activities include a performance in the spring play, sterling singing in the glee club and John became Cranbrook's first delegate to the United Nations on a recent visit to New York. The BROOK wishes him the best of luck at Oberlin next year.

Larry used to play goalie on the hockey team with a baseball glove but aside from this slight confusion he managed to remain fairly level-headed. Steve is a perplexing combination of esoteric intellectualism and down-to-earth unpretentiousness. As one of the most thoughtful and world-minded students at Cranbrook, he helped mold the character of student opinion and provided us with intellectual challenges from many outside fields of interest. He also analyzed society in "The Slingshot", and was in all respects a very far-sighted individual.

Being a staunch member of the Jet Set Security Council, Steve has been a leader in all facets of extra-curricular activities. He has established himself with the intellectual set, as well, by becoming a National Merit Finalist. Often, it has been rumored, Steve has been seen in the midst of a yellow streak in juxtaposition with a cute, but somewhat devilish and loquacious, Kingswoodite. Perhaps he has one of the subtlest, but most effective, senses of humor at his command which is exemplified by such fiendish sayings as, "Nobody will be the wiser" or, "We're all just penciled in."

Cranes Have Disappointing Season

It was disenchanting, to say the least. The 1-7 record, although not indicative of the team's true ability, speaks of a winless league performance, two losses to local teams, a rout by undefeated Gilmour of Ohio, and a lone, rather insignificant victory over Howe Military Academy of Indiana. Coaches Slader and Laskarides whipped consistent play out of their line, but aside from Tom Van Horn's 58-yard scoring pass to Arch Copeland against Western Reserve, could gain only occasional help from the backfield. And in seven out of eight cases that occasional help was unable to provide enough entire-game pressure for victory. The search was on all year for a hard-driving fullback, but although six different men tried the position it was obvious that all were either converted halfbacks or starry-eyed linemen. Lack of a true fullback was one of the greatest problems and therefore one of the prime reasons for such a disappointing season, for it meant the opposition could concentrate more on wide plays and passes than line plunges. Without this weapon, the team went literally nowhere.

Strong individuals pointed to what should have been a far better team fate: few could doubt the ability or value of Willey, Pete Maxwell, and Barlow as football players. Johnny Goodman and Terry Verity were sure tacklers and Arch Copeland ran well from a variety of positions, while doing much of the punting. Elmo Parsons and Bruce Smith were tough competitors, and fine performances were turned in by juniors Tom Love, Buzz Mieras, Flip Maxwell, Dave Craig, Tom Van Horn, Norb Zuckerman, Jim Lutz, and Tom Buford. Paul Shank, a sophomore, did a commendable job as he stepped into the quarterback slot vacated by Mosher. But it was key injuries, perhaps, which kept this team from jelling as it should have. Kopchick, Henderson, Craig, Yamasaki, Barlow, and Willey were all restricted, if not kept off the field, by various physical problems. These two factors, injuries and lack of a powerhouse fullback, were both prime reasons for the team's poor showing this year.

Defense played a strong part, perhaps too strong, in the games. Mike Stanton blocked a punt with his eye in the initial 27-2 lose to Groves, resulting in a safety and the Cranes' only score. But although the offense perked up considerably the following week at Howe, there was little doubt that the Indiana game would prove to be the easiest one on a tough schedule. As was expected, defense was the key in the Kettering and Reserve games, but a sputtering offense didn't provide enough support to prevent two more losses. So it went all season, as offensive errors gave up more than the defense could protect.

Co-captains-elect Buzz Mieras and Flip Maxwell, continuing the dynasty, will lead a promising group of lettermen and younger boys back next year. Their return to respectability should be interesting to watch. Perhaps next year they will merit that phrase which is one coach's highest, and sometimes only, superlative: "Amazing!"

Now listen you guys . . .

The line gets tough.

Hit from behind, Shady Side opponent is startled and stopped in his tracks by Captain Pete Maxwell. Defensive unit, a Crane strength, closes in.

Who Said It Was A Building Year?

From the very beginning there were high hopes for what looked like one of Cranbrook's most outstanding soccer teams. Experience was back at almost every position, and an extremely strong core of seniors began talking of going undefeated even before the real games began. Early practice bred a talented group which, under coaches Usellis and Steuart, developed probably even more confidence and pride than true ability. In a prophesy of things to come they won their first pre-season game over the A.F.S. squad, 3-2. But even more prophetic was the gallant loss on the following Sunday to the Alumni, an extremely strong squad which managed only a very tight 2-1 victory. The gameness of the varsity was made evident here, and with co-captains Bramble and Kitterman showing the way along with Steve O'Grady, who didn't have a bad game all season, the open desire to win was obvious. With one win and one loss under their "no-count" belt, the squad set off on a soccer venture unsurpassed since the DeWitt era four years ago.

Trailing Chatham Collegiate 1-0 in their first regular season game, a game completely dominated by Cranbrook, Dick Moon scored from a goal-mouth scramble, but the goal was disallowed due to offsides. But only seconds later he took a pass from O'Grady and tied the game, and when the Irish Booter rammed one home with only a minute left the contest was all but over. The Cranes continued to be pressed by Canada, however, for a week later they only managed to take a bitterly tight game from Sarnia Northern on Faisal Madouh's corner kick from left wing. In both games the spirit was impressive, but the lack of scoring disappointing.

At Hawken, in Ohio, the Cranes experienced a typical season-long malady: they were behind in the waning minutes. But Bob Heavenrich, whose hustle, even more than his finesse, was an invaluable weapon all year, scored to give Cranbrook a 1-1 tie. Two overtime periods didn't settle matters, however, and the score stood.

The league season opened at home before a noisy crowd against Shady Side, and as usual, the the Blue dropped behind at the very start. But Bramble tied the game on a shot from far out, and Kitterman iced it with two amazingly well-hit breakaway goals from right wing. This scoring duo set a precedent for later games in which either both co-captains scored or else neither did, and joint efforts occurred three times.

But the lowest depths of depression were reached the following week as University School dashed hopes of an undefeated season, 3-2. Before a boisterous Dad's Day crowd of hundreds, Cranbrook played sulkily and fell behind an inspired Prepper outfit by three crushing goals. Although Jimmy Hsu and Bob Heavenrich marked late fourth-quarter scores, these served only to hold together some tattered remnant of Crane pride, and it was a miserable group indeed which returned to school that night.

Obviously out for Homecoming blood the following week before one of the largest and most stirring soccer crowds in memory, the team met and narrowly decisioned an excellent Western Reserve group in a game which had nearly everyone's heart in his throat until Steve O'Grady scored the clincher late in the fourth quarter. With brilliant net-work by goalie Jim Bailey, heady play by Jim Weis, and a first period O'Grady to Moon goal, the Cranes as a team put on one of their most stylish shows of finesse and determination all year. It was an excitingly close but pride-filled 2-0 victory, a morale shot in the arm.

With the League Soccer Championship squarely on the line at Nichols, Cranbrook played its finest and most courageous game against a team unbeaten in thirty-one consecutive outings, a game which ended in a 4-4 standoff. As usual, the Blue fell behind at the start. But O'Grady headed a pass from Most Improved Player John Strickland, a solid performer all year, into the net and then scored again in the third period to give Cranbrook a 2-1 lead. It was short-lived, however, as Nichols scored two quick goals to pull into a 3-2 lead which looked bigger each waning moment. But in a heart-warming display of pride and courage, Dave Kitterman scored twice on the same penalty kick to tie the score. His first shot was before the whistle, so he was asked to shoot again, which he did successfully in the last minute of play to send the 3-3 tie into overtime. Nichols bumped ahead again but Bramble, always busy, penetrated a maze of players with a shot which again knotted the score. Thus it stood, undecided, but as far as the Cranes were concerned, proof of the determined capabilities of a team which not only refused to permit discouragement but also came back time after time to turn easy losses into meaningful victories or ties.

In an anti-climactic game with Chatham Kent for the Charles Houson Cup, the team romped more than the 2-1 score indicates, with both co-captains notching goals. Cranbrook retained the cup for the eighth time in the last nine years.

Of the three pre-season hopes—an undefeated season, a League championship, and the Houson Cup—only the third and least important was achieved. However, next year's group, led by Captain-elect Dick Moon, should find enough experience among the wealth of returning lettermen and underclassmen to fashion another fine season.

Although only two lettermen returned, this year's cross country season was indeed a remarkable one. Despite the lack of experience, record-smashing Captain John Cobourn, along with reliable Al Risch, led an inspired group of younger boys to a successful 6-2 record. Under the skillful guidance of Mr. Ronald Penny, the team improved considerably during the season.

The Cranes traveled to Indiana for their first meet, and they downed Howe Military Academy with great ease. Due to a lack of depth, the harriers lost by one point to a strong Waterford Kettering team the following week. The Cranes came closer than anyone to defeating Shady Side, but fell somewhat short, again due to lack of experience.

With a 1-2 record early in the season, the team was not discouraged; they made a fantastic recovery, winning the remaining five meets, all against Class A schools. Despite a rugged course at the Clarenceville Invitational meet, John Cobourn bettered his record for the third consecutive time. Unfortunately, the team failed to recapture the Class B title. They lost to an undefeated team from Riverside.

At Homecoming, Cobourn and Risch finished first and second to lead the boys to victory over Western Reserve. On October 29, the harriers put on a spectacular show to overcome a powerful Bloomfield Hills team. In this meet John Cobourn lost his only race of the season, to the state Class A champion, Bob Richards. Cobourn finished a close second with a time of 10:11, and he undoubtedly ran his best race of the season. Near the end of the season the squad trounced Ecorse in an especially jubilant victory. Last year Ecorse gave Cranbrook its only cross country loss.

There is great hope for the future. With a strong nucleus of returning lettermen, Captain Eric Muirhead and Mr. Penny are sure to build upon a young and vital tradition.

BASKETBALL

The basketball team's won-lost record is not indicative of how well the Cranes played this year. If this introduction sounds like an excuse for a losing season, it's not. The team had a very respectable 13-3 mark. By the end of the 1963-'64 basketball season, it had the confidence needed to walk on the court against any quintet, and come off of it after a hard-earned victory. It was lucky for other Class "B" teams that Cranbrook wasn't able to compete in the State Tournament; the boys would have surprised nearly everyone but themselves.

The potential was there: 6' 6" Jim Bailey, 6' 5" Co-captain Doug Fisher—not many could or would out-rebound; short, aggressive Bob Heavenrich—not many could or would pass better; Buzz Mieras, Jeff Hipps—not many could or would "hit" better. These are the boys who comprised the starting five in the area games. The team compiled a 9-1 record against fair competition. South Lyon, District champions in the State Tournament, fell twice to the Blue and Grey. Class "A" schools Madison Hts. and Oak Park each were left by the wayside twice. A poor Groves quintet captured the only victory against the Cranes, as the two rivals split their first home and home series. Below average teams St. Gabriel and Emmanuel Christians received decisive losses at the hands of the Cranes.

In these ten games Coach Hugh Davisson substituted regularly, as the depth of this unit was not lacking. Specifically, Tom VanHorn added much needed rebounding strength when the big men were on the bench because of foul trouble, or just for a rest. Sid Barthwell, the third guard, contributed with several games in double figures. Of course, co-captain Bill Estes inspired the team despite his ineligibility, as an unceasing chatter issued forth from the end of the bench during every game.

The contests against out of state schools, despite a good 4-2 record, and a tie for the Interstate League Championship, had their undertones of failure. Most obvious were the first two League games, in which the Blue and Grey came out on the short end both times. In successive weeks Shady Side and US dealt Cranbrook defeat by scores of 55-54 and 57-52, respectively.

However, the bright spots outshone the undertones, as the potential of the team was manifested during this time. A strong Howe team found itself under the fury of the Cranes, and fell by twenty points. In its best game of the year the Crane team defeated Culver 67-64. Then, in the two remaining League games the Davisson-coached quintet gained two victories to salvage a tie for the Championship. Nichols could have easily been defeated by fifty points, but the Crane starters only remained on the floor for three quarters. The team won 88-56. For the first time in ten years, Cranbrook defeated Western Reserve at Hudson, 54-53.

According to one's definition of success in basketball, the Cranes varied from a standard of "good" to "excellent." At any rate, the 1963-'64 basketball team will be remembered not for an unmarked record, or perhaps, for a few individual players. It will be remembered as a team. By the end of the season it was a group of five persons who played —and played hard—as one.

With only four returning lettermen, and one of the toughest schedules in several years, the hockey season began with a dim outlook by the players and coaches alike. All doubts were born out in the season opener against Catholic Central where, plagued by inexperience and first game "jitters", we were snowed under 6-0. In the next game, however, the Cranes came back from their first defeat, and led by two goals from senior Chip Brethen, gained a 5-2 victory over Ecorse, their first of the season. With one victory under their belt, the Cranbrook icemen progressively improved under the inspirational leadership of newly elected captain Tom Pfaff, and although losing the next few games, the Cranes played much better and showed a greater desire to win.

After losing a tight game to Notre Dame 4-2, the Cranes beat an improved Benedictine team 2-0. Then, just as they seemed to be getting its hockey legs, Christmas vacation came and everyone was subjected to three weeks of leisure, which set some players back at least a month.

After vacation we journeyed to Lakeview for a hard-skating, well fought game which unfortunately resulted in a 2-0 loss. This game, perhaps the roughest of the year, was indicative of the type of hockey played by the Cranes the rest of the season. Led by the fine efforts of Dick Moon and Captain Pfaff, we then beat St. Ladislaus, only to lose several days later to Catholic Central by one goal; but the team showed definite strength and improvement over the first CC game. We ended the season with a seven win—nine loss—two ties record.

Perhaps the most significant observation of the team was the fact that they tied the first place team in the division and won four of the last five games. The only loss was to a fine Nichols team which scored four goals in the last period to win 4-2.

This year many things happened which are not indicated by merely mentioning the scores and who scored. John French did an excellent job in the nets and was the deciding factor in many close games. Larry Schiller backed up "Frenchy" and provided competition to keep him sharp all season long. The first line, consisting of Dick Moon, Tom Pfaff and Flip Maxwell, provided nearly all of the scoring punch needed for our seven victories. This line will be back next year and will be the nucleus of the eight returning linemen. The second line of Chip Brethen, Hal Weckler and Butch "The Puck" McDonald did a fine job in holding the team together through the rough spots which were far too frequent. The "Flee Line", consisting of Steve Parrott, Steve Young and Bruce Hunter, not only gave the first two lines an opportunity to rest, but also provided entertainment to relieve tension. The defense was led by such notables as Dave Groff, Matt Friedemann, Ted "Billy Goat" Bunt, Guy Bramble, Mike Stanton and Johnny Come Lately Strickland. The defense made up for any faltering on the part of line by a sterling performance in every game.

Aside from hockey we will always remember the moonlit bus trips to and from Gordie Howe Hockey Land; the overtasty ham sandwiches with which we were blessed in the trip to Ann Arbor; goalie French's gesticulations to the crowd; the cry of "Skate Moony Skate!" which was often heard echoing from such unlikely places as the back of the bus; the girl who was injured in the Lakeview game when Mike Stanton flipped the puck into the box on a hurried pass; the refereeing of the Lakeview game in which the game ended five minutes too soon when the refree had to change an integral part of his equipment, and forgot to stop the clock; "Billy Goat" Bunt's domination of the penalty contest and his noble attempts at kicking opposing team members out of the penalty box; and a generally enjoyable and at times comic season.

The crowd waited tensely through agonizing moments as Goodman worked his frustrated opponent into a pinning combination. Suddenly shouts of "Pin! Pin! Pin!" exploded into a jubilant uproar as the crouching referee slapped his hand on the mat indicating that Goodman had pinned his man. With this tremendous support from the student body and a most dependable core of experienced wrestlers, Captain Barlow lead his team through another victorious season.

This year the team was fortunate to gain these new juniors, Hicks, Allen and Buford, who soon proved themselves as great assets of strength and talent. Much credit should go to Leithauser, Landry, Wilson, and Donahue, who continually showed uncanny ability and stamina. Under the cool leadership of Big John Laskarides, the team worked well as a whole and displayed good sportsmanship in trying situations.

Out of the long schedule of thirteen matches, there were relatively very few easy ones. Aside from Groves, Northville, Howe and Roseville, the Athletic Department had planned some quite formidable competition. Cranbrook suffered its first defeat to Royal Oak Kimball, one of the big wrestling giants in Detroit. Although Captain Barlow pinned as did Goldman in his usual way of indifference, the team was not quite ready for such powerful opposition.

After overpowering Lakeview with no trouble, Cranbrook met up against some of the strongest competition in the area: Waterford-Kettering. Although the team fought hard, they weren't able to overcome a strong Waterford team. Cranbrook had to succumb to two other big schools, Lake Orion and Dondero, both well-known for their wrestling, but only after a well-fought match.

Tying for only second in the League made the Cranes aware of the extremely keen competition in those schools. A smashing 30-10 victory over Shady Side gave Cranbrook a good start. Goldman and Barlow pinned and Goodman beat a tough opponent. The C.U.S. match was very disappointing. Even though Goodman, Buford and Leithauser won, and Allen pinned, the Cranes dropped a close 20-16 match. Traveling to Cleveland the next week, Cranbrook could do no more than fight to a draw with W.R.A. Goldman pinned and Barlow won a decision to clinch a 19-19 tie, but the Cranes could not pull ahead.

At the Regionals, Cranbrook finished third behind Flatrock and River Rouge in Class B. Allen, Leithauser and Goodman took thirds, while Goldman, Buford, and Hicks took seconds, and Barlow a fourth. Unfortunately Howie "I went to the Finals" Goldman was the only wrestler able to go to the State meet, where he went as far as the Quarter-Finals.

What do you mean the time ran out?"

Although Captain Barlow had to wrestle much heavier men than he had anticipated, he did a fine job as a wrestler and even more important, as a captain. Probably Goodman was the most reliable wrestler, compiling an undefeated 13 and 0 season, and certainly Goldman the most exciting.

Unfortunately several good wrestlers will not be here next year. But it is sure that Wilson, Goldman, Goodman, Wiedemer and Captain Barlow will remember the long wintry afternoons spent practicing and sweating in the wrestling room. But fortunately several reliable wrestlers, Landry, Leithauser, Buford, Reizen and Hicks will be back to carry on the tradition and most likely to turn out an even better season next year. With strong support and good coaching the Cranes should not have to settle for seconds and thirds but first in League and in the Region.

Having lost four starters to graduation, (including the entire pitching staff) this year's varsity baseball team well set out to defend its Inter-State League Championship and to carry on the proud tradition of Cranbrook baseball. Led by co-captains Bill Estes and Dale Bosley and seniors Larry Willey, Bob Heavenrich and Guy Bramble, the team should find itself blessed with a strong infield and at least one hustling flychaser. But the most important men will perhaps be the rookies and those players from last year moving into true baseball responsibility: men like Bob Taggart, Rod Davies, Pete Werbel, Tom Pfaff, Larry Schiller, Steve Hanway, Bill Price and Steve Lady. On the last three will be placed most of the direct burden of team success, for they will comprise the pitching staff and, as nearly everyone knows, all action begins and ends with the pitcher. There will be some big bats and two magnificent pitchers missing, it is true, but this year is far more than simply a year of rebuilding. The talent is there; the only question is how will it react?

The season actually begins with a two-week Southern Trip during Spring Vacation through North Carolina and Virginia, culminating by five games against teams in the Cincinnati area. Even last year's champions with their 13-4 Northern record did no better than 3-2 in these Cincinnati games, so it is obvious how important they are in the making of a unified ball club. Under coaches Dave Barney and Jack Sanders, however, it is expected that the team will not only gel as a whole and inseparable group but will also perform at the peak potential of its individuals. This last point will be crucial, for baseball is a game of alone-ness, and for this reason much will be expected of the many heretofore untested players stepping into the starting lineup for the first time.

It is a team with a great deal of pride, and pride may fall—but not without a long shout.

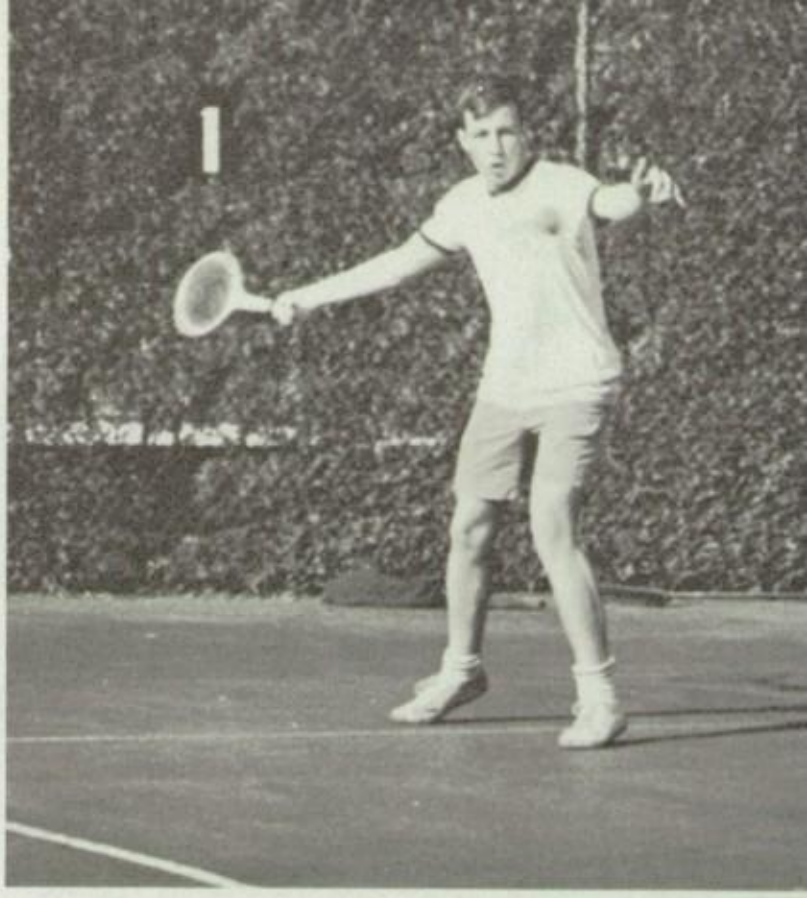
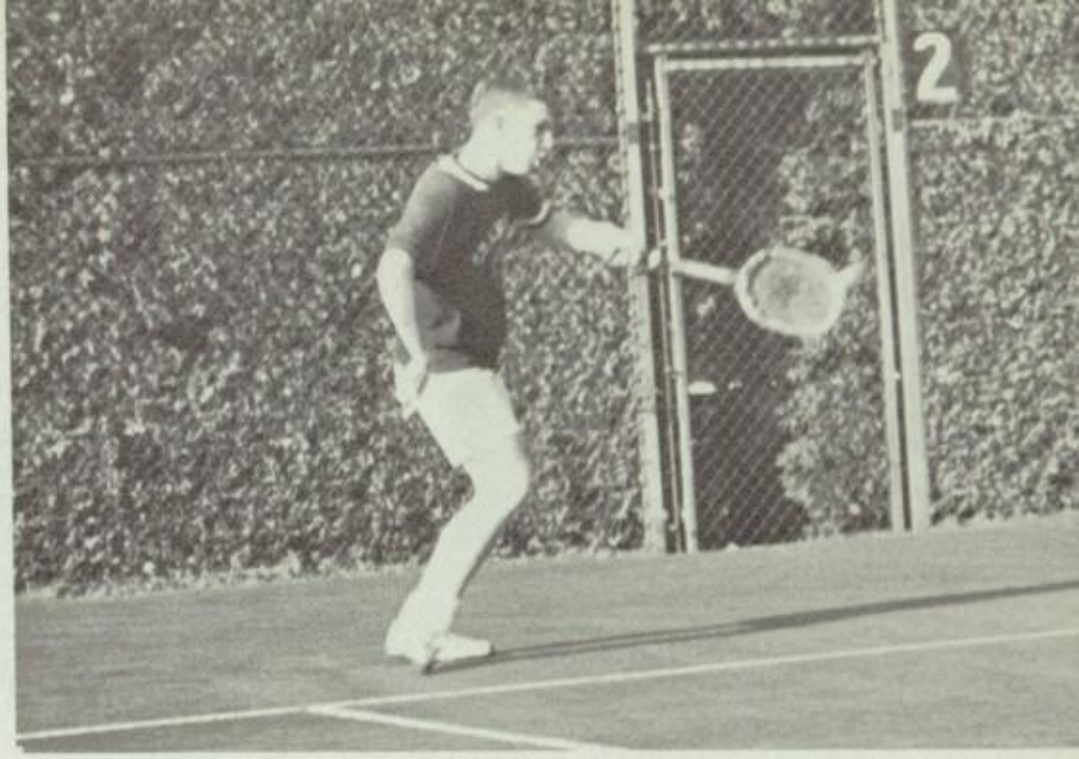
TENNIS

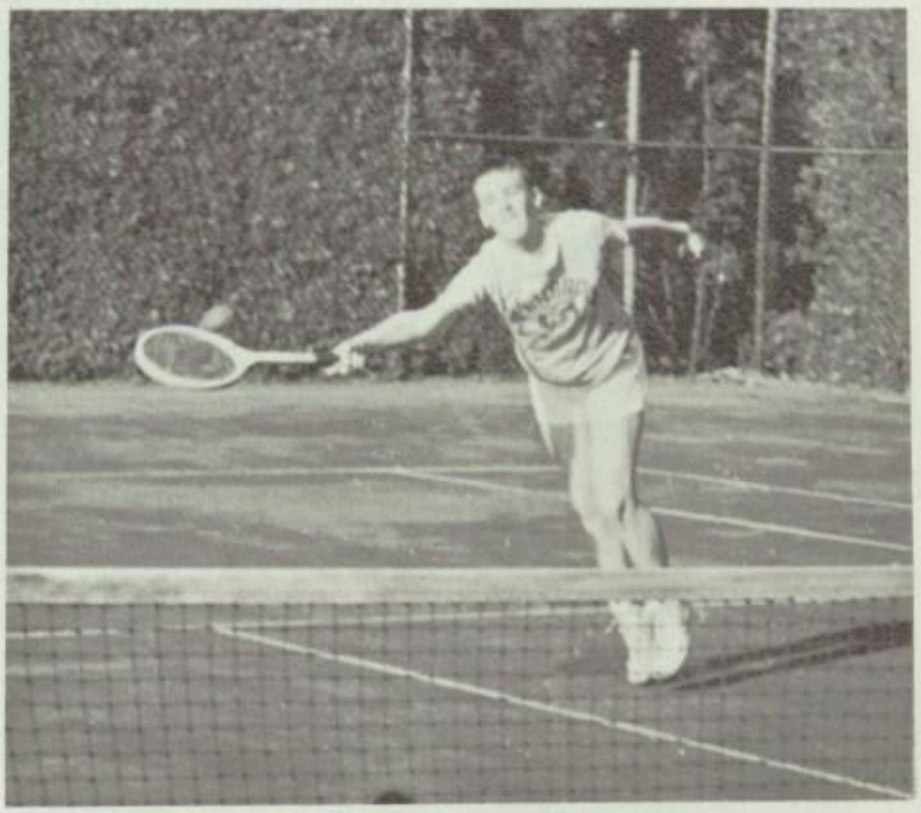


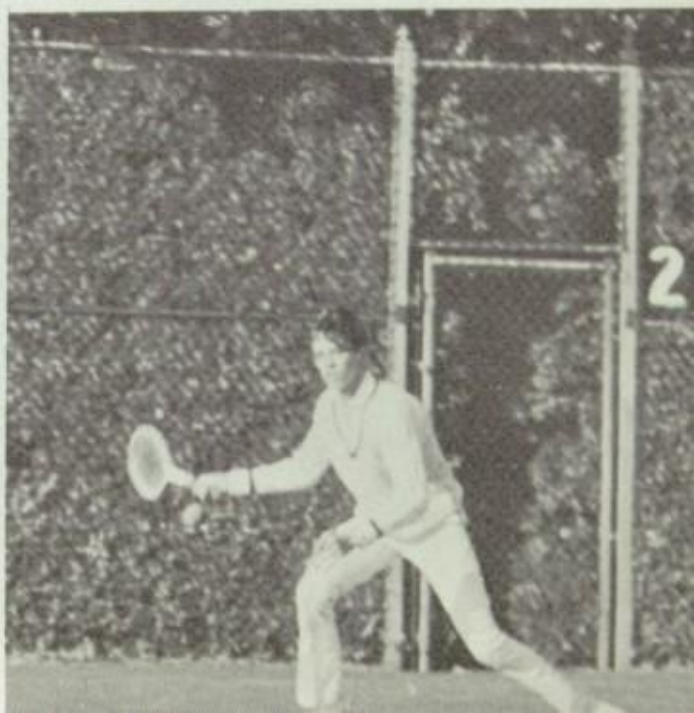
The 1964 Cranbrook tennis season promises to be most successful. With the help of seven returning lettermen, O'Grady, Gardner, Getsinger, Henderson, Wilson, Krolik and Zuckerman, this year's captain Steve O'Grady, should be able to lead his team through the keen League competion. Aside from the League matches, the tennis team faces such formidable opponents as Hamtramck, Grosse Pointe, and Dearborn.

This year, the tennis team plans athletic trips to Nichols in New York and University School in Cleveland as part of the regular League schedule. This year's annual Southern trip should provide excellent training for the first Varsity eight as they take on several big schools in Ohio and Kentucky.

Although Captain O'Grady suffered a broken right arm early this year, he stubbornly continued playing with his other arm and to everybody's bewilderment, promises strong support for the team. With such great determination, Captain O'Grady should have little trouble in coordinating his team into another fine turnout. Depending on such solid performers of last year, as Gardner, Getsinger, and Wilson, and with the help of new sophomore Dave Hatfield, Captain O'Grady and Coach Palmer anticipate another fine tennis season.







Coach Ben Snyder, having failed to secure Willie Betts for the track team, must content himself with what Cranbrook has to offer. In order to counteract the Bloomfield mile star (and all other rival contingents), Mr. Snyder will be forced to rely on an unusual combination of assets. The strongest areas on the team will be in the quarter mile, the distances, and the "weights". The quarter milers will be led by Captain Arch Copeland and followed by Gregg Dearth, Dave Craig, Steve Church, Chuck Earl, and Mike Stanton. This group has hopes of smashing the mile relay record. In the 880, Al Risch is capable of running under the fabled two minute barrier while Eric Muirhead and Ted Bunt fight for second place. The mile has the matchless "Long John" Cobourn. Need we say more? In the weight events Doug Green and John Kopchick are both hoping to set records in the shot put and discus respectively. The sprints are still a question mark; but Jeff Hipps, Tom Love, and Dave Kitterman should lead the group out of the depths of mediocrity. Jim Bailey and Terry Verity are expected to be dangerous threats in the hurdles, and Mr. Usellis hopes Paul Pillar and Dan Downing will also be helpful. Soaring over the standards in the pole vault will be Paul Shank, Chip Brethen, Flip Maxwell and Jim Hsu. Tom Van Horn, Greg Bower, Jim Bailey and Jeff Hipps should prove to be leapers extraordinary.

"Hope springs eternal" in Mr. Snyder's heart, and some very promising hopes for teams of the future lie in Bruce Hunter, Bob Franklin, Craig Tallberg, Bill Howe, and "Kip" Craig, all of whom can look forward to a good deal of success in track.

With 50% perspiration and 50% determination, the blue "C" on the flying white uniform should again be recognized as one of the top powers in the State.

"C" Club

Under the profound management of Tom Barlow, this year's Club reached new heights in social entertainment and general class. Treasurer Bill Estes refrained from absconding with too great a part of the funds and as a result the "C" Club rode good-humoredly in the black all year. Tremendous quantities of soft drinks, potato chips and hot dogs were sold by eager pledges in order to provide a financial reservoir for the annual "C" Club Dance, the highlight of the social year and everyone's favorite extravaganza. This year's dance proved to be a huge and gaudy success, featuring a sort of 'combo clash" between Mack Pitt's traditional ten-piece band and a suave Basin Street jazz trio. In addition to the dance there were also cabin parties and many happy faces of members carying linen from Third Floor Stevens to the Wrestling Room to make beds for visiting teams. This was the first year in many that Cranbrook's lettermen's club was so well organized, made such money, and accomplished so much. We wish next year's group as much luck in fighting off the Red Ink Scourge.

Glee Club

Once again this year the Glee Club sang its way through a season of varied entertainment. Under the jovial influence of its director, Mr. Read, and its accompanist, Mr. Mundt, the club did the job well. President Arch Copeland and Vice-President Jeff Hipps handled Handel's "Messiah" like Handel himself would have handled it, and shortly afterwards consummately produced Cranbrook's thirty-fifth annual Christmas Pageant. In the spring, General Bullmoose, Mammy Yokum and the gang undertook a hilarious musical comedy, "Li'l Abner." to a spirited audience. A heterogeneous mixture of practice, confusion, and hard work resulted in another fruitful season which ended with a concert at the annual Awards Night ceremony.

Radio Club

The Amateur Specialists to the Water Wonderland, otherwise known as the Cranbrook Radio Club, have spent another year of interesting study under the most able guidance of Mr. William Schultz. As the club's director, Mr. Schultz helped the boys to prepare for their amateur radio licenses by repeating again and again his vast store of knowledge.

Since 1961, the club has had its own transmitter and receiver. By the means of these two instruments many boarders are able to contact their families. The present system will soon be augmented by a high-efficing rotary beam antenna. When this antenna is installed it will increase the station's range to over one thousand miles.

There has also been some talk of establishing a Kingswood Radio Club, but the boys have yet to solve an almost unsurmountable problem; the girls are forbidden to contact the outside world. But it is hoped that Radio Free Cranbrook may be able to elude Kingswood's extensive jamming system and establish contact with the fair damsels across the lake.

Sitting: Goran Hallerstedt, John Kopchick, John Neely.
Standing: Dave Harbottle, Ed Bailey, Chris Ueland, John Strickland, Bruce Smith, Alan Steinbrecher.

AFS Club

The American Field Service Club has again enjoyed a successful year. Led by President John Kopchick and Vice-President John Neely, the club has netted a large sum of money to further the exchange of students between other countries and the United States .The members unselfishly volunteered their time whenever there was a service to be performed. The biggest source of income came from the sale of pop and donuts to the starving boarding throng. The club enjoyed a lucrative business on week-ends as the kitchen offered little or no competition. The club was also responsible for the sale of Christmas cards before the holidays. At the Foreign A-Fair the club put on a night club, The Shack, where food and drink were enjoyed by all. Besides earning money to support a student, this year, Goran Hallerstedt, the club also performs a service for the school. The members lead tours of new and prospective students around the school. It is hoped that in years to come the club will do as well as it has done this year.

Lieberman opened the meeting with a dubious tale about the lady and the author.

Following invocation, the meeting was called to order and the first item of business at hand was brought up: the Reid awards. The faculty advisor appeared in the doorway laden with mysterious yellow folders, and after a few experimental tries found his way to the desk, where he deposited them. The advisor spoke the memorable word "Herearesomemoreofthesethingsforyoutoread," and vanished into his office.

The question of reading the papers in the folders was brought up, and immediately discarded. A few were passed around, and several of the more mature members retired to the rear of the room to make decorative circles on the forms.

At this point Senter arrived, flinging his scarf madly, carrying with him a breath of cold from the outside and the faint hanging scent of coke and paper-back books. Lieberman immediately offered to allow Senter the rare privilege of stapling folders, and he retired to elaborate on the aforementioned lady.

Hummel smiled, and Elliott read in ecstasy, with an occasional "wak!" or hmmmm" finding its way into the atmosphere.

Carpenter entered, after pausing for several moments outside the door to sleek his otter hair and allow his pupils to dilate, and in a moment he was busy at work.

Hummel smiled, and Elliott wakked.

Then, in a fit of organization, Lieberman rose and propounded the fiscal reform bill for 1964. Under this plan, the Opus was to be compiled, set, and mailed off to Random House, to be bound in a morocco-and-gilt boxed edition, with full-color plates on every third page. Troxel applauded when it was announced that the New Opus would be sold for only 35c. Of course, it was assumed that everyone would have graduated by the time the bill for $450,000 arrived.

The plan was approved by unanimous vote, as was the picture of the lady. Hummel smiled, Elliott wakked, and Troxel applauded. It was also mentioned that Stern should be invited onto the staff, so that when his article was published, it could not be vilely said that the Opus had printed a work not written by the staff.

Several ladies later, the bell in the attic chimed, the giant mushrooms disappeared, as did the folders and the competent staff.

Pre-Med Club

Spearheaded this year by Leslie Reizen and Joel Bleier, the Pre-Med Club attempts to familiarize its members with the entrance requirements of medical schools, and to present movies and slide lectures. As a result of the present cancer scare, the movies obtained deal mainly with cancer. Dr. Sanders, the school physician, and Mr. Garlick conducted discussions and demonstrations, and were a great aid to the boys in the Club.

Debating

Suffering from the loss of last year's top debaters and the smallness of this year's squad, Cranbrook's debate team found the 1963-64 season to be rough going. It failed to finish among the leaders in either of the two leagues to which it belongs. The team competed in both the six-school Inter-Lakes League and the larger Metropolitan League, which contains such Class A schools as Seaholm and Dondero.

This year's topic was "Resolved: that the federal government should provide essential medical care for all citizens at public expense." Taking the negative side on the varsity level were seniors Pete Boswell and John Neely and juniors Jeff Doan and Paul Pillar. The affirmative chores were handled by sophomores Paul Share and Chris Connelly, who did a consistent job throughout most of the season.

The competition provided the team members with much valuable experience, and in the annual state tournament Cranbrook won five out of six preliminary debates, capturing distict honors. The returning debaters under Coach Usellis are looking forward to using this experience toward earning a much improved record next year.

The Forum

The Forum was born out of the rubble of the old United World Federalists, and under the capable leadership of Steve Senter, Pete Schoen and Mr. Lawrence Harris there was a definite attempt made to relate the activities of Cranbrook boys to the world around them. During the second semester much of this Forum-oriented relation was substituted by the World Affairs Seminar; but the first semester program was greatly involved with student government at Cranbrook and the racial problem (particularly in Detroit). Panels of students presented opinions and led discussions, and in addition certain faculty members and outside speakers also spoke in depth to what proved to be a very receptive and world-minded group of students. Unaffiliated and for the most part open-minded, the Forum should provide the school with a political and cosmopolitan stomping ground perhaps even more worthwhile than the controversial U.W.F.

Band

Rumor has it that Mr. Barney was swamped with requests from the student body this year for a first period Phys-Ed class. The only explanation available for the sudden popularity of this ungodly hour seems to be that at precisely that time the lively strains of John Philip Sousa, Rodgers & Hammerstein, Mr. Wonnberger, and other masters of the music world go floating through the gym from the nearby band room.

Once gain, under the able direction of Mr. Walter Read, the band made great strides during the school year, and its performances, although few, were memorable. These included appearances at two football games, featuring the traditional Homecoming halftime show, the home opener of the basketball season, the Dad's Club Winter Sports Banquet, and the annual spring concert in assembly. Aside from these occasions, several members of the band also participated in the orchestra for the production of LI'L ABNER in March.

Only two boys, President Terry Verity and Vice-President Bob Taggart will be lost to graduation this June, and so Mr. Read can expect a strong nucleus of returning veterans for next year's assault on "The Stars and Stripes Forever."

Rifle Club

Ergasterion

Ergasterion, Cranbrook's dramatic group, took on a heavy schedule for the 1963-64 season. During the fall, the ever-ambitious actors produced Oscar Wilde's perrennial favorite "The Importance of Being Earnest" and filled the little gym to near capacity with a boisterous crowd during its two-night stand. A hit both popularly and financially, it produced an embarrassing surplus in the treasury.

This year, Erg flourished under the experienced direction of Mr. Templin Licklider and the skillful leadership of President Steve Senter. Pleased with the success of Wilde's farce, they produced a dramatic reading of "The House," by Charles Bigelow '63. Shortly after mid-year exams, the boys went back into action with rehearsals for "The Bat". Throughout the year Steve Senter and Bill Wood turned in fine performances, helped by Kingswood's aspiring starlets and the inscrutable George Spelvin.

Dad's Club

Initiated this year by an active group of Cranbrook fathers, the Dad's Club has already become an integral part of Cranbrook life. Under the leadership of President Charles Brethen and Vice-President Robert Dearth, the dads have done much to promote school spirit and support among parents and students alike. The first event of the season was a pre-Homecoming Luncheon for student families. Bolstered by their initial success, they benevolently launched the much appreciated practice of giving away refreshments after several sports events during the winter season. Next they participated in the annual Foreign A-Fair, operating a prosperous booth.

But the greatest event of all came on March 13, when the Dad's Club sponsored the first annual father-son Winter Sports Awards Banquet. After a magnificent buffet dinner, the coaches spoke and awarded the winter sports letters. The guest of honor, Olympic Gold Medal winner Terry McDermott, gave a short speech and narrated a film of his record-breaking victory in the speed skating event at Innsbruck, Austria. McDermott correctly explained the portions of the tape which sports announcer Jim McKay so nicely garbled on the film. An unexpected guest at the dinner was Governor George Romney, who asked Mr. McDermott several interesting questions after the film.

The Cranbrook Dad's Club is a young organization, but it has already proved that it is a vital force on the Cranbrook scene, a group that is willing to contribute both time and money to an important cause; better school spirit.

THE BROOK

Ominous rumblings have often emanated from the subterranean depths of Stevens and Page Halls. There, in a small, closely guarded cubicle, several dedicated young men toiled feverishly and incessantly throughout the year. Rumor has it that they created the BROOK in one night. That rumor is completely untrue. It took at least a week.

Despite a complete and utter disregard for deadlines and the established principles of yearbook journalism, the devoted workers of the BROOK staff somehow managed to clear the air of cigarette smoke and produce a somewhat objective view of Cranbrook in 1963-64. It may, however, be the first summer edition of the BROOK.

After the 1963 edition, which was widely acclaimed as Cranbrook's funniest, and perhaps worst, yearbook, it was evident that the checks and balances of editing had to be strengthened. And they were, after vigorous protests and threats by faculty and students alike.

At the beginning of the year, nearly everyone on the staff was almost totally unfamiliar with yearbook procedures. However, after almost a year of diligent application of the basic fundamentals of journalism, the staff is almost totally unfamiliar with yearbook procedures. Hopefully, with considerable luck and the continued financial assistance of the school, there will be a BROOK next year. Maybe.

Paperback Book Club

This being the third year of its existence, the Paperback Book Club has accordingly made several innovations. Under the supervision of Mr. Penny and direction of Bruce McWilliams, the book club doubled in size this year and sold hundreds of hardbound books from the Cranbrook Foundation. The student demand for books was so great that often the club had trouble keeping the shelves filled. The best sellers were, of course, Mad and Edgar Rice Burroughs' books, though the club met with great success in an attempt to improve student reading tastes with the works of Plato, Sophocles, Thoreau, and Frost. As well as these, recently released works such as Lord of the Flies and Travels with Charley were also sold in great quantities. This year, as usual, the book club donated large chunks of its profits to the Scholarship Fund, the American Field Service, and other worthwhile causes.

Seated: Herb Tookey, Mr. Ronald Penny, John Neely, Chris Ueland. Standing: Dick Moon, Dick O'Reilly, Bruce Burwell, Les Reizen. Absent: President Skip McWilliams.

Here are eight different ways to say quality and each Ford Motor Company car proves the meaning of the words . . .

Ford-built means better built

The way you express yourself—in words or automobiles—is a personal thing. The infinite variety of individual tastes is one reason why we offer such a wide selection of makes and models in the Ford Family of Fine Cars. Differences in our products are obvious; similarities are in critical areas where to differ would be to offer less than the best. Every Ford-built car is packed with built-in extra-value features which make it last longer and serve you better.

Here are a few features that all Ford-built cars have in common: double coats of primer and triple coats of tough, chip-resistant enamel oven-baked to a diamond-bright finish; doors with steel panels inside and out to make them more solid . . . help prevent annoying rattles; Cushion Recoil action suspension systems that allow wheels to "roll with the punches"; rigidized bodies of extra-strong construction to give you a more solid and silent ride. Whichever model you choose to express your own taste, you'll find Ford-built means better built.

Mike -
It's going to be a great year next year. Keep up your piano playing and keep working on establishing radio
contact with Russia!
Richard Capalli

Mike
don't get caught smoking next year - it won't look too good -

Have a blast - I gotta dash boys
Pete Boswell

Have a good
Summer

Mike my boy! Thanks keep this cannon in mind for Boston
next year.
Ron

Tina, I mean piano
Jen play a so I hope you're not on my floor next year.
Good luck this summer. - MIKE year. you'll need it!
I am Van Horn

Don't work to hard watching
T.V. next year.

Jim Lutz

Mike,
how I still can't figure out how you ever conned me into rooming with you, it's still this year's mystery. We've done a lot of things expected to start the Breakers this year Nevertheless we're on our way to fame and fortune. Next year should prove to be good one for the Breakers!
Anyway I'll be looking forward seeing you next year!
thanks and Beethoven stuff) (keep up that Back

Bonne Chance

Later - don't do anything I wouldn't do
Richard Williams

Mike -
I hope you get an A on your French test as you probably did. Good luck and take it easy
Steve

Mike -
Have a good summer
